APPEARANCE AND PRESENTATION

You are representing both yourself and Red every day you go to work. Red has worked hard to build a professional reputation in the market place, and we expect you to dress in an appropriate way every work day. Employees of Red Appointments are not to wear any other company branded clothing to site whilst representing Red Appointments.

SAFETY

Red takes the safety of our employees very seriously. There have been many companies that we have chosen not to do business with because we weren't convinced they shared our commitment to safety. It is critical to the success of our business that all parties, Red, our host employer (Client) and employees work as a team to ensure we fulfil our obligations legally in regard to safety, but also morally. We care about our people; your safety is important to us.

YOUR OBLIGATIONS

Your main obligation with employment for Red is to also share our safety focus, and be practical and sensible in everything you do. You are an employee of Red, and therefore you are required to communicate with us any concerns, queries or suggestions you may have in regard to all areas of safety, or anything else for that matter.

You have obligations under the “Occupational Health and Safety Act” to

- Protect your own health and safety while you are at work
- Avoid effecting the health and safety of co-workers through any act or omission at work
- Obey all reasonable instruction given to you by our clients in relation to safe work practices and wearing PPE
- Comply with company policies and procedures
- Ensure you present yourself in a fit state for work each day

OUR OBLIGATIONS

Red’s obligation is to ensure you are working in a safe work environment. This requires us to be very selective who our clients are, and to ensure they all share our vision to provide a safe environment for all of our staff. Prior to your commencement, Red would have completed both a management systems audit and site assessment of our client.

Red is also required to ensure you are appropriately trained, supervised and communicated with about all risks associated with your work.

REPORTING INCIDENTS

Regardless of the outcome, no matter how small, incidents need to be monitored and recorded and also learnt from. You are an employee of Red Appointments and in the event of an injury you are required to contact your Recruitment Manager immediately/at the earliest possible convenience. This is best achieved by calling them on their mobile which will be given to you at induction, or office number (08) 8947 0443.

It is a condition of employment that you comply with these instructions. You are also required to assist in the incident investigation and make yourself available in rehabilitation / alternative duties as discussed with Red.

WORKPLACE INJURIES

In the event you are treated by a doctor, the doctor will issue you with a Workers Compensation Medical Certificate. This certificate needs to be forwarded to Red as soon as it is issued. You may have to complete a workers compensation claim which will be completed with a Red representative.

If, after a work related incident you have been advised by a doctor that you can return to work but only on modified or alternative duties, the return to work process will commence immediately. Where possible, suitable alternative duties will be found for you to continue working, until such time as you are certified fit to return to your pre-existing duties.

Red has researched medical practices to find the best professionals that we believe will look after our staff to the levels we expect. Please try and ensure you go to this doctor. If you need medical attention follow these steps:

1. Seek first aid at the work site and inform your Red Appointments consultant of the injury and outcome.
2. If the First Aider or You feel you need to see a doctor go to:
